How can I register to sit UCAT?

You are required to complete a two-step process using the Pearson VUE online registration system to register and then book a test. Further details are available at www.ucat.edu.au

You can sit UCAT in your final year of high school and any year thereafter.

Do I need to prepare for UCAT?

Yes! The UCAT is a skills based test which is completely different to any other test you have sat at school. It is a very difficult, time pressured exam and quality preparation is therefore essential. Even students who obtain a perfect ATAR can miss out on a place in medicine due to poor UCAT scores. For some universities, UCAT is as important or more important than your ATAR. UCAT preparation will also help with your school study as it enhances your thinking and test-taking skills.

Aren't free UCAT resources sufficient?

No! Universities do not want you to undertake quality additional preparation, because they want a level playing field. Unfortunately, this does not exist. Informed and motivated students will always prepare for UCAT, and MedEntry provides premium UCAT resources to assist.

What UCAT score do I need to get into medicine?

The UCAT score that you need to get into medical or dental school depends on the university to which you are applying. In general, for non-rural students, a UCAT percentile of at least 90 will usually secure you a medical interview offer. This may not seem high, but remember you are competing against a much tougher cohort than at school/uni.
